Century-old Berwick Manor put in Nat'l Register of Historic Places

By BRUCE HOROVITZ

A 26-ACRE FARM in Carmel Valley that once belonged to a farmer who read books while tending his fields has been placed on the National Register of Historic Places.

Kent Seavey, county historical coordinator, is responsible for the listing, sanctioned by the President's Advisory Council on Historic Preservation on Nov. 17.

It is the first structure in Carmel Valley to gain such distinction. Only one Carmel structure, the Mission San Carlos Borromeo, is listed on the federal register, Seavey said.

The century-old Berwick Manor, currently owned by Edith Mason, 60, is the first structure west of the Mid-Valley Shopping Center on Carmel Valley Road.

Mrs. Mason is the granddaughter of Edward Berwick, renowned statesman and farmer who built the estate. She was born in the home, as was her mother.

The Berwick acreage remains substantially as it appeared in 1869, when Berwick built additions to a crude structure made of hand-hewn beams. The original structure is believed to date back to the 1840s.

•

EDWARD BERWICK, the builder, became famous for his pear orchards and 20,000-acre sheep ranch in Carmel Valley at the turn of the century.

Berwick also played an instrumental role in the formation of a parcel post service in the state in 1913.

Berwick began the campaign against the monopoly of express companies and the expensive freight rates that worked a hardship on farmers. He was president of the California Postal Progress League.

Historic placement of the estate does not mean it will be opened to the public. According to Seavey, it will remain a residence and closed to the public.

Edith Mason, the owner, says she will still live there

Mrs. Mason said she intends to keep living in the home. "There are so few of us originals left here in the Valley," she said.

•

THE HISTORICAL status provides tax incentives for preservation under the Tax Reform Act of 1976, Seavey said.

Once a structure is federally certified, it is eligible for "downzoning" to that strictly for historic use, Seavey said.

The historical coordinator explained that downzoning would decrease the property value, hence, lessen the property taxes. "The property taxes almost scared me out of here," Mrs. Mason said Wednesday.

The residence already is historically registered with the state and is eligible for state funds for preservation and reservation up to $40,000, according to Seavey. Mrs. Mason has applied for no funds, however, he said.

There are strings attached to state funding, including a commitment to open the house to the public at least 12 days a year.

The historical status limits external changes to the house, although remodeling inside is permitted, Seavey said.

"With 200 years under our belts, it is time to start identifying ourselves in time and place," declared Seavey.

Historic placement means the structure is somehow connected with or contributed to the broad pattern of national, state or local history, explained the historian.

A lack of public awareness is responsible for the small number of federally protected historical structures in

Airborne Santa lands in Valley

"The Santa-Special," piloted by Don Cummings, arrived right on schedule from the North Pole and made a couple of low passes over the excited throng waiting at the Carmel Valley Airstrip to welcome Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus on Saturday.

The Fort Ord Seventh Infantry Band struck up Santa Claus Is Coming to Town as the plane landed and Santa transferred to one of the four fire engines driven by Jeff Fry, John Radon, Dan Weiss and Jim McCabe, from the Village and Mid-Valley stations. Then the parade through the Village to the Community Center started.

Musicians donating their services from the Musicians Union Local 616 played Christmas Dixieland under the direction of John Carlin, while marching tunes were presented by the Carmel High School Band, under the direction of Henry Avila.

Accepting cochairmen Jim Corso and Margie O'Hara's invitation to join the march were Smokey the Bear, played by Pete Garneau; Troop 2021 of the Brownie Girl Scouts with their leaders, Susan Hudson, Myrna French, Sue Clayton and Mario Saliskan, and Mary Kay King and her Junior Troop 2012; members of Boronda and Buckeye 4-H Clubs; and Cub Scout Pack 127 accompanied by Cub Master Terry Stratton.

Kiwanis president Randy Randazzo, in Bob Brandt's sleek black convertible, contrasted with the antique cars entered by Mr. and Mrs. Sal Verde; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bush; Mr. and Mrs. Edward McGlochlin; Dr. and Mrs. Jim Thompson; Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Rhoades; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Rembert; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Small; Skip Marquard and George Rausch.

The Claus couple held court at the sponsoring Carmel Valley Community Youth Center where hundreds of small fry lined the driveway waiting their turn to tell Santa what they wanted for Christmas. Each child was presented with a candy cane from Longs Drug Store in Monterey.

Mr. and Mrs. Claus, Margie O'Hara and Otto Huebner expressed the same emotions felt by other couples who have played the role over the past years. The adoration of the children who bring gifts of cookies, handmade crafts, cards and letters, their faith and the honesty admitted by some that there was room for behavior improvement next year have always made it a moving unforgettable experience.

This was the 17th year for the "Santa Fly-In," a uniquely styled Carmel Valley event. It originated as a chamber of commerce promotion idea for Valley businesses and later was taken over by the Community Center Board of Directors to mark the official opening of the holiday season in Carmel Valley.

"MERRY CHRISTMAS, Carmel Valley," called out Santa Claus as he disembarked from "The Santa Special," once again piloted by Don Cummings, who has made the flight on numerous occasions. (George T. C. Smith photos)

A FITTING escort for the North Pole visitors was this group of Brownie Girl Scouts from Troop 2021.

"OH, OH, I forgot to tell Santa something important," seems to say a reflective Belinda Underwood, but from the proud smile of her sister, Geri Wright, a Padre Band member, her interview with Mr. and Mrs. Claus was just fine.

Firefighters will deliver gifts to Valley youngsters

Firefighters from the Carmel Valley Fire Protection District will conduct the "Santa Claus Delivery Service" again this year in the district. Gifts will be delivered from the fire engine to Valley youngsters on Christmas Eve.

Adults who wish to have a gift delivered should bring it to the firehouse by noon on Saturday, Dec. 24. There is a limit of one package per child. The service is free.

Firemen will require a card that lists the child's name, address and telephone number. If the house is difficult to find, written directions should be included, said Fire Chief William H. Sims. Animals, bicycles and other large packages will not be accepted, he said.

Packages can be dropped off between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. at the fire house on Via Contenta. The deliveries on Christmas Eve are scheduled between 5 and 9 p.m.

"CLIMB ABOARD!" was the invitation of Smokey the Bear and Carmel Valley fireman John Woods. Quick as you could say "Merry Christmas," the little red engine was covered with excited Valley young people.

SAL VERDE in his "oldie but goodie" evoked chuckles from spectators all along the parade route.

EVERY PARADE has its share of pretty girls such as Julie Colburn (left) and Dianne Brussells, who graced the CV Kiwanis entry.

Edward T. Reilly quits Carmel school board — new job

Edward T. Reilly Jr. announced his resignation from the Carmel Unified School District Board Tuesday night in a letter to the board. His resignation will become effective Jan. 1.

Reilly, 33, elected to the board in March, has accepted the position of general manager of Instructo Corp., a subsidiary of McGraw Hill Publishing Co. in Paoli, Pa., a suburb of Philadelphia.

His letter to the board said he would be moving early in 1978. His school board term began March 8 and was not scheduled to expire until 1981.

The school board will schedule a meeting sometime next week to decide how to replace him, according to school board president Pamela D. Smith.

The board has the option of calling a special election in June, or appointing a new board member to fill the rest of the four-year term, according to Mrs. Smith.

She said a June election could cost between $3,000 and $4,000. The board has until Feb. 1 to decide on whether to appoint an interim trustee or call an election, she added.

In his letter, Reilly said, "I hope the board will choose a new member committed to quality education in Carmel and who possesses appropriate administrative and financial acumen to be a constructive force in the months ahead."

Mrs. Smith said Reilly was the most "business-oriented" of the five school board members.

Reilly had been the controller at CTB/McGraw-Hill in Monterey.

The board will be looking for a replacement with a business and financial background and also knowledge of the school district, said Mrs. Smith.

"We are terribly sorry to see Mr. Reilly go. His fine business mind was a real asset to the board," Mrs. Smith stated.

Carmel Valley Librarian

For those of you not familiar with us, or even with the fact that Carmel Valley has a library, we are located next door to the Bank of America in a storefront which boasts a charming fireplace and approximately 10,000 books.

In addition to the usual library materials (books, records, cassettes, jigsaw puzzles, art prints, sculptures and magazines), we also dispense coffee, tea, reference information and cheeriness. On rarer occasions, we also have given away knitting tips, Whyte poppy seeds and horse manure.

More importantly, we are here for only one reason and that is to serve you. If you have a question and don't know where to locate the answer, come in and ask us. You may think we are too small to help, but as one of the Monterey County Library System's 18 branches we have direct access to the county's 333,000 volumes. At our Salinas headquarters, trained reference librarians have hundreds of reference books and access to other reference systems all across the state. So give us a chance to earn our salaries by asking us your questions.

In the meantime, Mary Lou and I will continue looking for pumpkin bread recipes, the "perfect" novel and how to keep your fireplace from smoking. But please don't ask me to hold your horse while you float his teeth because once was enough.

Mrs. Knight gets State schools post

Dr. Charlie M. Knight, a Carmel Highlands resident defeated in a 1975 bid for the Carmel Unified School District board of trustees, was appointed Monday as associate superintendent for state elementary school education.

Mrs. Knight, 45, director of special projects for Monterey Peninsula School District, was appointed by State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wilson Riles.

"My major effort in this position will be the implementation of AB 65," Mrs. Knight said, referring to the state's new equalization-in-spending law.

She will assume her new position in Sacramento Jan. 15.

Mrs. Knight has worked in the education field for more than 20 years, eight years as a teacher, three as a counselor and 12 as an administrator.

State finding due Monday

New well pumping lid seen for Carmel Valley

By JIM BARRETT

A NEW, MORE restrictive limit on the volume of groundwater pumped from beneath Carmel Valley is expected to be established in a state report due out Monday.

The study of water conditions was asked earlier this year because of the prolonged drought and an increase in the number of wells pumping in the Valley. The report by the State Water Resources Department will update an earlier department study in June 1974 that said the "safe yield" from the Carmel River aquifer was limited to 15,000 acre feet a year.

The new study was requested by the Zone 11 Water Advisory Committee, according to Carl L. Stetson, chief of the San Joaquin district of the Water Resources Department. He said the report probably would be forwarded to the advisory board by Monday.

"There is no evidence of seawater intrusion, but I can't say anything about the conclusions yet," said Richard Meffley, a senior engineer with the department in Fresno. Meffley directed the study in 1974 and is compiling the new information.

Saltwater intrusion could contaminate groundwater in the Valley. If normal underground water flow beneath the Carmel riverbed slows and sinks deeper, the likelihood of salt intrusion increases, the state department warned in 1974. Two wells situated at the river mouth and near the coast are monitored by the county to detect saltwater intrusion.

•

IN 1974, THE study of the Carmel Valley aquifer concluded there was enough water to supply needs on the Monterey Peninsula until 1981. The finding, however, was made before the drought, the subsequent increase in drilling, and use of remaining reservoir water. A total of 77 new wells have been put in operation in the aquifer area since June 1973, according to the Monterey County Flood Control and Water Conservation District.

The flood district has provided Meffley with drilling data. Meffley also said he has been given figures on the amount of water that has been pumped from wells operated by California-American Water Co.

County Planning Commissioner William Peters, who represents Carmel Valley, said he expects the aquifer "safe yield" figure to be reduced.

"If they do reduce the 'safe yield,' which I think is likely, that will affect and limit the future growth on the Peninsula," he said Monday. Peters explained that a diminished "safe yield" figure would lead the State Public Utilities Commission to reduce the amount of water California-American could extract from the Valley aquifer.

IN A RELATED department, an issue paper on the effect growth would have on the aquifer is scheduled to be released today by the Association of Monterey Bay Area Governments (AMBAG).

"Based on my own review, there doesn't appear to be much of a problem with reducing the quantity of water that can be recharged in the Carmel Valley aquifer," said Doug Catey, a water quality engineer with AMBAG, who had read the report. He said the issue paper, prepared by a consulting firm hired by the regional agency, based its conclusions on a continuing rate of growth in Carmel Valley.

The issue paper and recommendations for improving water quality in the Monterey Bay region are the scheduled topics of a slate of public hearings called by AMBAG citizen committees. Locally, the public hearing is scheduled on Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the AMBAG conference room at the Carmel Hill Professional Building, 23845 Holman Highway. The room is on the first floor of the building.

Several other topics are discussed in the issue paper. Topics include nitrate buildup in Salinas Valley groundwater, pollution in the Laguna Grande-Roberts Lake area and aquifer recharge in the Pajaro and San Lorenzo Valleys.

French films to be screened

L'Atalante, French director Jean Vigo's comic romance, will be screened at the Monterey Peninsula College Music Hall, 980 Fremont St., Monterey, Friday, Dec. 16, at 7:30 p.m. Bizarre, Bizarre, a French detective story, also will be shown.

L'Atalante is the story of a barge captain (Jean Daste) who marries a peasant girl (Dita Parlo) and takes her with him on the barge L'Atalante. The girl becomes frustrated by the lack of adventure on the barge and dreams of the excitement of Paris. When they go ashore, she quarrels with her husband, they separate and the barge goes on without her. Both husband and wife despair, but are reunited through good luck and with the help of the elderly, grizzled, eccentric mate (Michel Simon).

The film opened in Paris in 1934, on the same day that the director was buried. The film was called "his masterpiece, in which realism is united with surrealistic poetry to create a violent and powerful lyricism.

Bizarre, Bizarre is a 1937 film directed by Marcel Carne. Set in Edwardian England, it begins with a detective story writer accused of a murder that never took place and moves rapidly through an enormously complicated plot, involving mistaken identity, Mack Sennett chase scenes and a gallery of strange characters. The cast includes Michel Simon, Francoise Rosay, Jean-Louis Barrault and Jean-Pierre Aumont.

Both films are in French with English subtitles. Admission is $1.50. For more information, phone 373-5522.

Talk about heroism Wednesday in Carmel

"The Mystique of Masada — the Heroic Struggle of a Few against the Many" is the topic of a Wednesday lecture at the Carmel Foundation. Col. Joseph Lacey, chairman of a series of Wednesday programs at the foundation, will present the lecture.

He recently returned from a trip to the Mideast and plans to show slides taken on the trip. His lecture begins at 2:30 p.m. at Diment Hall, Eighth and Lincoln. Tea will be served after the talk.

Masada is a hill at the south end of the Dead Sea where the Jews made their final stand against Roman soldiers. The battle ended in A.D. 73 with the Jewish defenders of the hill killing themselves instead of surrendering.

NADRA COLOHAN got her comeuppance Monday – in a nice way. Her husband, Bill, a diehard golfer, had to interrupt his game at Rancho Canada Golf Club because there on the 10th green was Nadra seated at a table. She had a two-tier cake on the table, champagne on ice in a bucket and three musicians serenading her. "I never get to see him because he's always on the golf course," Nadra had complained before. To make itself known, a new "do-almost-anything-for-a-buck" firm, Renta Yenta, set up the big surprise as a publicity stunt celebrating its Monterey opening. It surprised Bill, a realty agent from Carmel Valley, and his golf partners, Coots Mitchell and Jack Bessire, of Pebble Beach. (Del Kaller photo)

The New York Dance Theatre, founded in 1974 by Ohman, performs new works in the classical, modern and dramatic vein. The members of the eight-member troupe are soloists and principals from the New York City Ballet, Boston Ballet and other companies.

The program will include a Nutcracker pas de deux, with choreography by George Balanchine; Flower Festival in Genzano pas de deux, with music by Poulli; Serenata, with music by Dvorak; Melodie, with music by Tchaikovsky and choreography by Frank Ohman; One time pas de deux, with music from the third movement of Maurice Ravel's string quartet; and Ramifications, with music by Legeti.

Members of the company will also perform the premiere of a pas de trois, with music by Francis Auber, created by Ohman especially for the Carmel performance.

Ohman, a former member of the San Francisco Ballet, has been a member of the New York City Ballet since 1962. Another of the troupe dancers, Lynda Yourth, joined the New York City Ballet Company in 1960. She recently danced with Rudolph Nureyev in a show entitled Nureyev and Friends on Broadway.

The New York Dance Theatre made its debut before a large audience at Lincoln Center's Out-of-Door series in August 1974. This is their first American tour and their only appearance on the West Coast.

Tickets, at $6.75 and $5.75, are available at Sunset Center. For reservations or more information, phone 624-3996.

Padres meet S.J. foe

By JAY POSNER

AFTER PLACING third in the weekend Pacific Grove Invitational Basketball Tournament, the Carmel Padres varsity basketball team will host Westmont High School of San Jose tonight in the first round of the Carmel Basketball Tournament. Tip off is at 8:30 p.m.

The Padres earned the third place finish by winning two out of three games, the last being a 41-40 overtime thriller against Monterey.

In that game, the Padres fell behind 10-4 in the first seven minutes, but fought back and scored 10 straight points at the end of the first quarter and the beginning of the second. The teams then exchanged baskets and the Padres took an 18-14 lead into the locker room at halftime. However the Toreadores fought back and led by Ken Ross, who was the top scorer with 16 points, tied the game 26-26 at the end of the third quarter. Carmel opened a six-point lead late in the game, but Monterey came back again to close the gap to 36-34 with 15 seconds left.

The ball was inbounded to Padre guard Dave Stevenson. Three Toreadore players descended, the ball was knocked away, Stevenson was knocked down, no foul was called, and Ken Ross tossed in the tying basket and the game went into overtime. The Padres took a 41-38 lead and with one second left, Monterey was awarded the ball out-of-bounds. Carmel called time out and Coach Joe Feldeisen had all his men stand at halfcourt to avoid a three-point play.

Monterey scored at the buzzer, but the Padres had the win and revenge for their earlier loss to the Toreadores in the first game of the season.

The Padres had balanced scoring with Tom Frincke tossing in 12, John Frincke and Dave Stevenson added 11 and 10 points, respectively.

AGAINST North Salinas High School, the Padres played their worst game of the year. They shot only 26 per cent from the floor, while the Vikings tossed in 66 per cent of their shots. Carmel trailed 12-7 at the end of the first quarter and after a Padre freethrow, North High ran off 14 unanswered points, most of those without 6-8 center Ed Hinkel who was on the bench with three fouls, as was Padre forward Tom Frincke, who scored only four points all night.

Carmel trailed 34-14 at the half, and although North High outscored Carmel by only three points in the second half, the game was out of reach. John Lucido led the Padres with 14 points and John Frincke added 12.

In the first round of the tournament, the Padres defeated Marina High School of San Leandro, 63-57, in a game that wasn't as close as the score indicated. The Padre starters opened up a 39-19 lead at halftime and a 57-34 lead after three quarters. The reserves came in, but couldn't get anything going and when Marina cut the lead to nine, Feldeisen had to put in the starters to preserve the victory. Dave Stevenson paced the Padres with 14 points, Tom Frincke tossed in 12 and John Lucido added 11.

HORSE LOVERS not only love horses. They love all the things that go with horses. All "their gear, tackle and trim," as Gerard Manley Hopkins puts it. "All that c--p," as the horse-hater in our family puts it.

Horse lovers never get enough horsey things. Nowhere near all the things we want. Also, since budgets and horses are enemies, we usually don't have all the things we claim to need.

Given a choice of Christmas gifts, we all want everything, EVERYTHING in the horsemen's supply store!

Now, about the things you really want the very most . . . You ain't a-gonna get 'em. You want the $4,000 horse and the $400 saddle? You might get the forty-cent ring made of a bent horseshoe nail.

If you could bring yourself to want anything under five or ten dollars, you stand a better chance of getting it. Aunts, grandmas, and all males related to you by birth or marriage or whatever get glazed eyes above five dollars.

Now if you are an aunt or a grandma or a whatever, pay close attention. We're about to solve your annual problem: WHAT TO GET A HORSE LOVER THAT COSTS LESS THAN FIVE DOLLARS (or thereabouts).

Pants and shirts and hats and boots are all out of this class. But how about a pair of boot hooks ($1.95) for pulling on the boots or a bootjack ($2.25) for pulling them off? Very few horsemen have enough pizazz at the end of a day to bend over to pull off their boots.

There are handsome belts, both western and English, and ties that come in both English and western styles. So do gloves and spurs.

You can't get a saddle but you can get a personal branding iron to brand the old saddle with. You can get replacement cinches and conchos and other pieces of tack. Some bits and some reins can be had for your five dollars and then again, some cost a whole lot more.

Unless you know exactly what your horse lover wants, don't buy him a crop or whip. There are more kinds of horsewhips than there are kinds of equestrian sports. Most riders are fussy about what style whip they use.

Wouldn't a teenage girl love a macrame bridle kit?

BOOKS are always welcome gifts. You don't have to worry about whether the book is too easy or too difficult. Beginners are avid for encyclopedic books full of figures and facts; they want all the information they can get. Old hands like looking at books for beginners and always know half a dozen people to whom to loan the book.

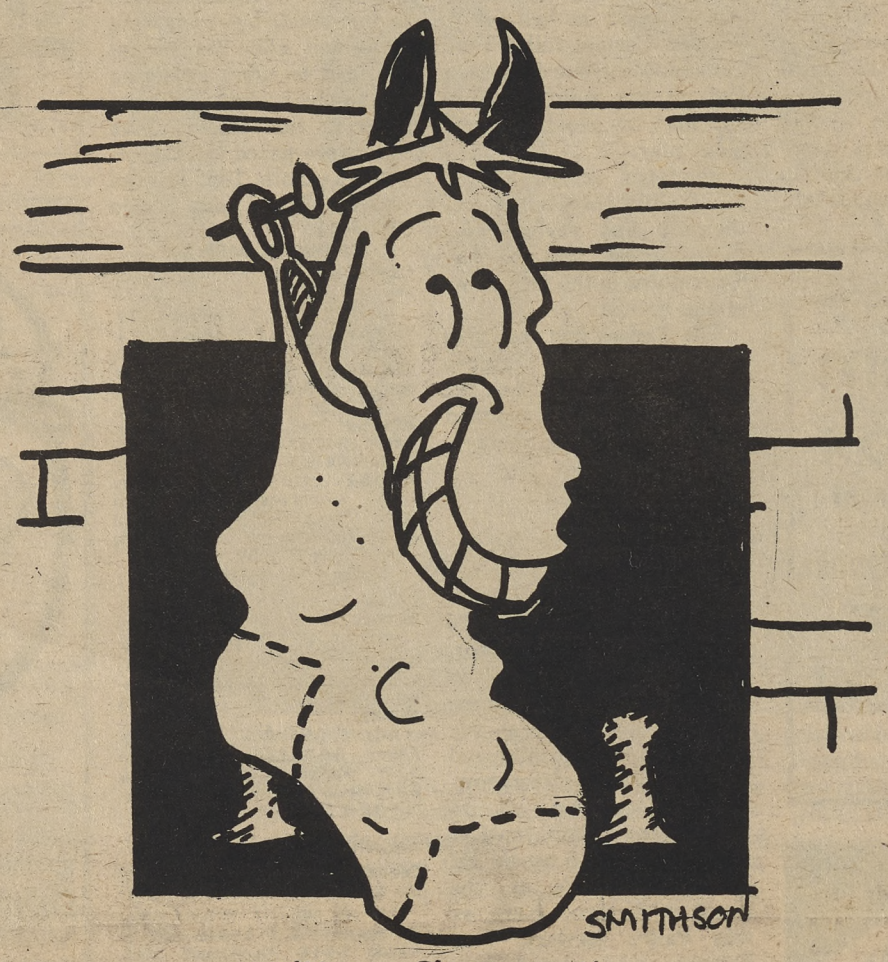
If your horse lover doesn't have a horse (yet!), there are still a lot of fun gifts. Pictures of horses come as pictures or as jigsaw puzzles, scarves, towels, plates and glasses, and so on.

Practical and useful gifts are very considerate ones. Horsemen always need more brushes, saddle soap and neatsfoot oil, vitamin food additives, shampoos, ropes of all kinds, liniments, antiseptics, hoof dressings and such. Leather punches and gadgets for repairing tack are always getting lost or loaned — which amounts to the same thing. Ditto fencing pliers and hoof-trimming tools.

Old man Mose kicked the bucket and horses kick them too. Rubber buckets make welcome gifts.

The ultimate in practical and useful gifts would be a sack of grain or a couple of bales of hay. You may laugh but no horse lover will turn up his nose at that and his horse won't either.

They are a bit difficult to gift wrap and hide under the Christmas tree, though.



'Merry Christmas!'

Riders to go caroling Sunday

The Carmel Valley Riding and Polo Center will go Christmas caroling on horseback Sunday from 5:30 to 7 p.m. in the Mid-Valley and Robinson Canyon Road area.

The annual tradition turned out a troupe of 30 riders last Christmas and a large contingent is again expected.

Residents are invited to join the carolers in familiar Yuletide songs.

Hikes in Big Sur, Toro Park slated

Hikes in Toro Park and along the De Angulo Trail in the Big Sur area are on the outing calendar of the local Ventana Chapter of the Sierra Club. Members of other chapters and interested nonmembers are welcome to join the excursions.

The De Angulo Trail hike Saturday, Dec. 17, involves a fairly steep climb, about 2,700 feet in three miles, and is not recommended for beginners. Hikers will begin the eight-mile trip at Highway 1 about 37 miles south of Carmel and walk up to the Coast Ridge Road to Cold Spring Camp for lunch and back. Meet at 8:30 a.m. at Brinton's in Carmel Rancho Shopping Center, Highway 1 and Carmel Valley Rd., Carmel, to form car pools. Bring lunch, water, sturdy shoes and the recommended driver reimbursement of $2. For more information, phone leader Bill Denholm, 372-5480.

The moderate loop trip through Toro Park, Sunday, Dec. 18, will be about 6.6 miles long with a 1,200-foot elevation gain. Bring lunch and water and meet at Cinema 70 in Del Monte Shopping Center, Monterey, at 8:30 a.m. or at the park entrance at 9 a.m. There is a 50-cent entrance fee for each car at the park.

UC Davis beats local riders

Polo-playing ladies descended on the Carmel Valley Riding and Polo Center last weekend to compete in the fourth annual Ladies Polo Tournament. Four guest teams from UC Davis, Modesto, Cal Poly at San Luis Obispo and Salinas took part in a round robin tournament with the Carmel Valley home team.

Saturday, UC Davis defeated the CVRC team and Modesto beat Cal Poly and Salinas. The activities culminated with a spaghetti feed at the polo field.

Play resumed Sunday at 9:30 a.m. with the Carmel Valley poloists winning the consolation prize by defeating Cal Poly 9-0 and Salinas 3-2. The Valley players included Gabrielle Houston, number one, who scored one goal; Carole Borucki at number two position, four goals; Stormie Hale, number three, five goals; and Brenda Lambert, number four, two goals.

Finals were won by Modesto, 7-1 against UC Davis. The Modesto team included three members of the well-known Walton polo-playing family with Betsy Walton high-point scorer with four goals.

Umpires were Pat Herman, John Walworth, Kevin Willert and Fay Humphries.

Call for blood issued by Red Cross

Blood donors are needed to provide blood for emergencies over the Christmas and New Year's holidays. A pre-holiday blood collection is scheduled Friday, Dec. 23, at the Carmel Holiday Inn to bolster supplies, according to Jean D. Snow, of the Carmel-by-the-Sea chapter of the American Red Cross.

The inn is situated at Rio Road and Highway 1. The hours are from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. A luncheon will be served to the donors, Santa Claus will make an appearance and babysitters will be on duty, she said.

"Many patients are urgently in need of blood and our local Red Cross-Community Hospital blood program is not getting the donors nor are the Central California Blood Center Bloodmobiles. Accidents come with the holidays with the result that more blood than usual is required by the hospitals to treat the additional load of victims," she said.

THE LONG and short of it. City Forester Greg D'Ambrosio holds one of 5,000 young trees to be given away Saturday morning at the 15th annual Carmel Tree Giveaway in the Post Office parking lot. THIS OVERALL view of the historical Berwick Manor shows the reservoir and irrigated garden which led to the development of the famous Berwick pears. The Berwick family is shown in the foreground.

Berwick Manor listed in federal site register

Monterey County, Seavey claimed.

•

THE ENTIRE CITY of Carmel-by-the-Sea is listed on the state's historical resources inventory, Seavey said, "and it could prove helpful if something came around to endanger the quality of the city," he added.

The county historian noted that Carmel was not distinguished as a federal historical site.

He suggested the Charles Sumner Greene studio on 13th and Lincoln in Carmel could qualify as a national historical place.

Although Seavey could name no other potential federal landmarks in Carmel Valley, he said the Jose Manuel Boronda estate on Boronda Road could qualify for state historic preservation.

Edward Berwick died in 1934 at age 91. He was an early advocate of women's suffrage and strongly supported construction of the Panama Canal.

The family stopped growing the world-famous Berwick pears on the property after World War II.

Berwick next tried raising hogs and cattle, but Mrs. Mason said, "Besides wild oats, about the only thing we raise around here is Cain."

Author Robert Louis Stevenson once wandered by Berwick's estate. Berwick asked the stranger what he did for a living. Stevenson replied, "I sling ink."

THE BERWICK MANOR, a century-old, 26-acre farm in Carmel Valley, has been placed on the national register of historic homes by a presidential advisory committee. Tree giveaway set for Saturday

The Carmel Forestry Commission will offer 5,000 young trees Saturday morning at the 15th annual Carmel Tree Giveaway.

The giveaway will take place in the post office parking lot, Dolores and Fifth, from 8 a.m. until noon.

The commissioners will offer coast redwoods, Douglas firs and Monterey pines. There is no limit, but City Forester Greg D'Ambrosio suggests no more than six trees per person.

The giveaways are bare root seedlings ready for replanting. D'Ambrosio says the seedlings are easy to plant and require little water.

"The drought took a lot of our older trees and it's time to start replenishing Carmel's urban forest," D'Ambrosio said.

Members of the City Forestry Commission will be on hand to offer instructions on how to plant the seedlings.

Recipients need not be Carmel residents, although it is hoped most of the trees will be planted here, D'Ambrosio said.

One-man show at Carmel gallery

A one-man show of paintings by Alex Gonzales entitled Works on Paper will open with an artist's reception, Friday, Dec. 9, 6-8 p.m., at the Carmel Art Association Galleries, Dolores between Fifth and Sixth, Carmel.

Gonzales creates abstract landscapes in which the oil is scratched and scribed to form tactile textures of grass and other growing things. Space and distance are created through overlapping strokes of color.

Gonzales has taught drawing and painting at Monterey Peninsula College since 1964. He holds a BA from the California College of Arts and Crafts and an MA from San Francisco State College. He has also studied at the San Francisco Art Institute.

A large abstract oil by Gonzales, entitled Mirage, won the 1972 Best in Show award at the Monterey Peninsula Museum of Art competition.

Photos on exhibit

An exhibit of photographs by Ed del Valle and Mirta Gomez, Harold Jones and Sean Kernan will open at the Wynn Bullock Gallery with an artist's reception, Friday, Dec. 16, 8-10 p.m. The gallery is part of the Friends of Photography Galleries in Sunset Center, San Carlos and Ninth, Carmel.

Ed del Valle and Mirta Gomez make their photographs as a team. Long-time residents of Miami, they now live and work in New York. Their photographs are included in the U.S.I.A. Exhibition of 12 Southern Photographers, an exhibit organized by the New Orleans Museum of Art which is traveling in Europe and Asia. Aura and the book Human Image have both published their photographs, and they were awarded the Photographers' Fellowship by the National Endowment for the Arts in 1976.

Jones, a graduate of the University of New Mexico, has served as curator for the International Museum of Photography at George Eastman House in Rochester, N.Y.; as director of LIGHT Gallery in New York City; and as director of the Center for Creative Photography at the University of Arizona in Tucson. He is now coordinator of the photography program in the University of Arizona Department of Art.

Kernan teaches at the New School for Social Research in New York City and at Manhattanville College in Purchase, N.Y. Portfolios of his photographs have recently been published in Camera 35, Camera and Creative Camera. Included in this show, his first major exhibition on the West Coast, are photographs from his prison series, which he made on visits to the Alabama and West Virginia prison systems. He has written extensively about photography for Camera 35.

Eyermans' newborn

Describing their infant son as a "Christmas miracle" are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eyerman, parents of Brett Robert, who arrived Nov. 17 at Community Hospital. He is now at the family home on Country Club Drive, much to the delight of his brother Eric Lee, 3, and sister Jennifer, 1.

Paternal grandparents who have visited the six-pound, two-ounce arrival are Mr. and Mrs. George Eyerman, of Fallbrook; while maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Echweikert, also of Fallbrook, are planning a visit after the holidays.
